Symposium Overview/Intended Audience:

The Cardiovascular Institute is pleased to offer this exciting educational opportunity highlighting innovations in aortic vascular disease. This conference will provide updates on advanced endovascular applications for varied CV diseases, discuss patient selection for sophisticated catheter treatment options, and review contemporary management of complex PT's considered for advanced endovascular therapy or circulatory assistance.

It is intended for professionals who evaluate and treat aortic valve disease including PCPs, Cardiologists, CT & Vascular Surgeons, trainees, and extenders in these fields.

Statement of Need

The fields of cardiothoracic and endovascular surgery have seen tremendous advances over the last 2 decades. Management of valvular heart disease has been completely revamped as a result of transformative new technologies and innovative strategies. Therefore, there is a strong need for practitioners to regularly receive updates about the management of these conditions. This conference will cover a broad range of topics in cardiothoracic and endovascular surgery. The primary focus will be to make practitioners aware of the latest techniques in management. We will also review the evidence that supports, or fails to support, the use of different strategies.

Objectives

- Provide updates on advanced endovascular applications for varied CV diseases.
- Discuss patient selection for sophisticated catheter treatment options.
- Review contemporary management of complex PT's considered for advanced endovascular therapy or circulatory assistance.

Intended Outcome

Incorporate advanced endovascular options, benefiting patients with elevated risks.
