Conference overview

The inaugural AHN Headache Conference is a one-day course featuring presentations from various leading regional experts in headache medicine, highlighting the ever-growing landscape of headache management. The educational content will provide useful approaches for diagnosis and management of headache disorder and facial pain disorders by applying best practices in headache medicine. Learn about neuromodulation devices and other nonpharmacological options available. The event is ideal for primary care providers, general neurologists, fellows, residents, CRNPs, PAs, nurses, and all other allied health personnel.
